Kim Jong Un, General Secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea and President of the State Affairs of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea

Over the past ten years of leading the revolution, Kim Jong Un devoted his all for the good of the people, regarding them as his God.

For him, nothing is more precious than the people, as they constitute the foundation of the country, and nothing is more sacred than their interests. Mindful of this lofty ideal, he was always on the road of on-site guidance for the people, visiting every part of the country, be it a remote mountain village or windy coastal area.

In this decade he, holding high the banner of self-reliance, broke through the trials and difficulties on the way with a strong will. Under his energetic leadership, the major sectors of the national economy equipped themselves more firmly with Juche-based production processes and model factories representative of the era of the knowledge-based economy sprang up, opening up a bright vista for improving the people's standard of living.

Modern streets like Changjon, Mirae Scientists and Ryomyong, residential districts and cultural and welfare facilities were built in the capital city and other parts of the country, ushering in a golden age of construction.

One cold December day Kim Jong Un rode a chairlift in the Masikryong Ski Resort, which had merely undergone a test run, to check its safety. Another day he walked up to the 17th floor of an apartment house for lecturers at Kim Il Sung University, so as to make sure that everything was perfect for the dwellers. One hot summer day he guided on site the construction of a large-sized vegetable greenhouse farm in Kyongsong County for a long time so as to supply the people in the northern area with fresh vegetables all the year round.

One snowy day he visited the construction site of the city of Samjiyon at the foot of Mt Paektu, which was being renovated into an ideal town of the people, and one rainy day he guided the construction of the Yangdok Hot Spring Resort, even tasting the water from the hot spring.

These exertions were inconceivable without ardent love for the people and extraordinary determination and willpower.

Kim Jong Un showed through his revolutionary practice that boundless affection for the people and devoted service for them equated to sparing nothing for the good of the people and dedicating one's life to them without hesitation.

He never hesitated to set out on an on-site guidance trip whether it was early in the morning or late at night, rain or shine, and no matter how faraway his destination was, if it was for the people.

He made sure that thoroughgoing preemptive epidemic prevention measures were taken to keep his people from the global health crisis, and travelled readily to wherever there were people who were left homeless in floods, proposing to build better homes for the victims.

Thanks to his warm affection for and firm trust in his people, the DPRK is growing ever stronger in the face of unprecedentedly severe trials. All the remarkable achievements the country has made are a fruition of Kim Jong Un's ardent affection for and trust in the people and his devoted efforts for them.

The leader takes responsible care of the destiny of the people to the last with great affection and sincerity for them, and his people follow him with absolute loyalty to and trust in him. Thanks to these ties of kinship, the DPRK has been able to record one great victory after another of historical significance, and usher in a new heyday of brilliant creations and leaps forward in a decade in the new century of the Juche era.

The country will resound for ever with the song of loyalty the Korean people dedicate to Kim Jong Un who does everything he can do for their prosperity and happiness.

Upholding the Banner of Self-Reliance

The past decade is characterized by the proud victories the Korean people achieved in the spirit of self-reliance under the leadership of Kim Jong Un.

Cherishing ardent love for his country and absolute trust in his people, who are faithful to the cause of the WPK, Kim Jong Un continued his on-site guidance trips, instilling the spirit of self-reliance in the people.

He led the country to attach importance to science and technology and consolidate self-sufficiency and the Juche character of its economy under the banner of self-reliance.

Amid the soaring enthusiasm for science and technology, all the sectors of the national economy proactively introduced advanced science and technology, established a management system in which science and technology play the leading role in production, and turned the production and technology management processes in their factories and enterprises into innovative and creative ones.

All the historic achievements the Korean people performed in the face of grim trials were attributable to the wise leadership of Kim Jong Un who put forth Juche-oriented lines and policies at every stage of the development of the revolution and ushered in a new era of massive creation and transformation in all fields of socialist construction on the strength of the spirit of self-reliance.

Test Runs at Midnight

Regarding the problem of offering convenience to the people as the top priority, Kim Jong Un saw to it that trolley buses and trams of a new type were built. When they were produced, he organized test runs of a tram and trolley bus, and saying that he would feel at ease only when he saw the test runs as they were to be used by the people, he personally rode on them.

Organizing test runs at midnight lest they should disturb the people and personally riding on them was an expression of Kim Jong Un's trait of making selfless, devoted efforts for the people and taking pains to do something more for them.

Everything for the Improvement of the People's Livelihood

Kim Jong Un devoted his all to make his people the happiest in the world. His primary concern in this was to improve the people's living standards.

To solve the food problem of the people, he kindled the flames for scientific farming and increased agricultural production and visited various parts of the country—be it a mountainous area or windy fishing station—to boost the country's livestock, seafood and fruit production, and fish and offshore farming.

Under his guidance, the light-industry sector of the country has newly built many production bases and renovated existing factories, laying solid foundations for increasing the variety of consumer goods and improving their quality.

Vegetable greenhouses, mushroom farms and stockbreeding bases have sprung up in various parts of the country, fruit farms and fishery stations have boosted production, and factories and enterprises have put production on a regular basis, contributing to bringing about substantial changes and improvements in the people's living.

On a Sunday in the hottest period of the year, Kim Jong Un visited an airfield in Kyongsong County.

Saying that he had come to have vegetable greenhouses built there for the people in North Hamgyong Province, he looked round the vast airfield for a long time under the scorching sun.

One day in August, that is, a month later, though the weather was still hot, he visited the place again and guided the construction of the farm for a long time.

His devoted efforts continued until the construction of the farm was completed.

Sea of Apples at the Foot of Chol Pass

Kim Jong Un strived to ensure large fruit production bases in various parts of the country reaped rich harvests.

For example, he visited the Kosan Combined Fruit Farm several times and gave it his advice on scientific manuring and cultivation of fruit trees so as to increase production in the face of the extreme weather conditions, including strong winds and heavy rains. When the farm had a bumper harvest, he came to the farm again. Very satisfied to see the heavily-laden apple trees, he described the gratifying scenery as a sea of apples at the foot of Chol Pass.

Socialist Sea Fragrance

Kim Jong Un exerted himself to ensure a good supply of fish to his people.

In order to write a new chapter of the history of “gold sea,” he had modern fishing vessels provided and sometimes suggested methods of scientific fishing and fish processing. During his visits to fishery stations, seeing large piles of fishes in the landing ground, he was so pleased that he even entered freezing chambers and looked round them for a long time, sometimes lifting a block of frozen fish.

Thanks to his strenuous efforts, spectacular scenery of big fish catch was unfolded in the DPRK.

He saw to it that the factory was renovated as a model factory for the sector of light industry, and named the brand of its products Maebongsan, symbolic of the high spirit of the Korean service personnel and people and the victory they had achieved. Ushering in a Golden Age of Construction

With an ennobling ideal and intention to ensure that his people enjoy the civilization of the new century, Kim Jong Un made devoted efforts to usher in a golden age of construction.

His devoted efforts to this end are reflected in the houses, recreation grounds and other architectural structures that encapsulate modern civilization.

When architectural structures were under construction, he went over thousands of their artist's impressions, giving his opinions on how to make them wonderful; and he gave on-site guidance at their construction sites rain or shine. Once he personally drew a design on a sheet of paper at a construction site during his guidance, so as to make the structure more wonderful and more immaculate.

Thanks to his devoted efforts, a street was built every year in the capital city of Pyongyang; the Samjiyon area in the northern region of the country developed into a modern cultured mountain city and a model of rural rejuvenation; schoolchildren's palaces and children's camps in different parts of the country were renovated, and fine recreation facilities have come into existence one after another for the good of the people.

Witnessing their beautiful dreams and ideals coming true, the Korean people have felt that their leader is their father, who has shouldered their future.

Kim Jong Un gave detailed guidance for its construction, ranging from designing the houses and public buildings to setting up an electricity supply system and landscaping, and he went to the construction sites several times, solving on the spot the problems arising in construction. The city, built in three stages, has become a model of socialist cultured mountain city and a standard of rural rejuvenation as it sustains the national and modern characters in its building and formation and the specific features of the northern alpine region. It opened a new phase of the combination of usability, diversity and formative and artistic beauty.

Once, when visiting the construction site of the Yangdok Hot Spring Resort with an intention to have it built as a comprehensive medical treatment base and a multifunctional sports and recreational complex, Kim Jong Un tasted the hot spring water and felt the temperature of the water of over 80°C, saying that eggs can be boiled in the water of that temperature.

Then he went to the outlet of the hot spring and measured how long it took the eggs to be boiled; he then instructed to lay out a site so that the people could boil eggs there.

This is how an egg-boiling site was laid out.

To Protect the People's Health and Safety

Kim Jong Un has directed close attention to ensuring people's health and safety amid the global health crisis and provided them with a happy life even after natural disasters hit the country consecutively.

Giving priority to the work of ensuring that the people enjoy greater benefits of medical service, he has energetically led the struggle to develop the socialist public health service to be the most advantageous and progressive one by building new medical facilities while renovating the prevention and treatment institutions and pharmaceutical and medical appliances factories.

To cope with the global health crisis, he ensured that a well-knit system and foundations were established, and is leading the epidemic prevention work.

When an unprecedented natural disaster hit a region, he went to the site along muddy roads to take relevant measures; he also gave on-site guidance at the housing construction sites in other disaster-stricken areas to provide the victims with more wonderful houses.

Kim Jong Un, who has shouldered the destiny and future of his people, continues his devoted service for them whatever the adversity.
